ILR-sanctioned Llama Show

Judge: Mike Haumschild

PLTA-certified Pack Trial

Sponsored by Lower Sherwood Farm

www.basecampllama.com

www.lowersherwood.com

We are proud to offer a fun llama weekend featuring an ILR show and a PLTA pack trial. Membership is not required to participate in either event. You will be showing from your trailers, so please provide your own panels, pop-ups, generators, etc. Plan to camp out on the farm with your llamas. Or, for those less inclined to camp, a list of area hotels is provided in the entry information. We encourage exhibitors to visit the PLTA website.

PLTA Pack Trial

We're offering both basic and advanced trails. Both will be running at the same time, so you will need a different handler for each llama you wish to register. Being a member of PLTA is not required, however, there is a small fee per each handler that is a non-member. This fee allows all handlers to be covered by the PLTA insurance policy.

For those who are new to pack trials, we recommend that you visit packllama.org to get acquainted with PLTA and the expectations for each llama. At the basic levels it's pretty much a walk in the park with your llamas.

51. Basic Pack Trial

The Basic pack trial tests early stages of training and conditioning against minimal packing requirements. The llama's natural ability and trust in their handler are being evaluated. This level is designed to encourage maximum participation by new and aspiring llama packers and pack llamas. Basic trials are designed to reflect this philosophy as well as being a fun and educational event. A llama certified at the Basic level is beginning to learn to pack. It is expected to be willing to hike short distances with a light load. It is expected to be well-behaved and responsive to its handler, as well as being able to negotiate simple obstacles composed of single components. The certified Basic Pack Llama is a competent day hiker on easy trails.

Basic Pack Trial General Requirements

Criterion	Requirements
Minimum age of 24 mos, 24 to 30 mos. carries no load
Load (% of body weight)	0 - 10% of body weight
Distance	3 miles
Elevation Gain	250 to 500 feet
Total Number of Obstacles Required	5
Performance Deductions Allowed	5
Successful Trials Required for Certificate	2, including 1 carrying wt.

Additionally, all llamas will be required to be weighed, and have task management evaluations. Tasks include being staked out for 20 mins. and standing quietly for haltering.

You may sign up to become a member and register your llamas at the show. Please sign up for the pack trial in advance. However, we will accept registrations at the event.

Everyone is welcome to participate in the pack trial, however, only llamas owned by PLTA members and are registered with the PLTA will have their trial applied to their certification requirements.

All necessary forms are included below.

52. Advanced Pack Trial

Advanced trials are designed to test a llama's ability to deal with a moderately demanding packing environment. The requirements are more stringent than at the Basic level. They are based on the expectation that the llama will be moderately fit and be able to negotiate more complex obstacles than at the Basic level. This is reflected in the longer distance, greater elevation gain and more numerous and more difficult obstacles that make up the standard the llama is tested against. A llama certified at the Advanced level is still learning to pack. This llama has attained a mental and physical skill adequate to pack moderate distances, and negotiate obstacles that are more demanding than a Basic llama would face, but are still composed of a single component. A certified Advanced Pack Llama is a competent overnight packer on gentle journeys. Requirements for an Advanced pack trial are shown in the table below.

Advanced Pack Trial General Requirements

Criterion	Requirements
Age	At least 3 years old
Load (percent of body weight)	15% of body weight
Distance	5 miles
Elevation Gain	750 to 1000 feet
Total Number of Obstacles Required	10
Performance Deductions Allowed	3
Successful Trials Required for Certificate	4, or 3 if the llama has a Basic Certificate

Annual PLTA Membership Fee: $30
 Lifetime Llama Registration Fee: $15
 Non-member Associate Status Fee: $10
 (This fee can be rolled into a Membership Fee within the calendar year)

RULES AND INFORMATION

Farm Participation Fee

We charge a "farm participation" fee of $50. Stalling fees make up a huge part of what offsets the cost of putting on shows. This fee is in lieu of paying for stalls.

Youth Ages as of Jan. 1, 2019

Junior 7 to 11 years
Intermediate 12 to 15 years
Senior 16 to 19 years

Llama Ages as of Sept. 14, 2019

Juvenile 5 to 12 months
Yearling 13 to 24 months
Two-year-old 25 to 36 months
Adult 36+ months
Aged 10+ years

Entry Fees

$40 per llama - includes halter and performance
$20 per additional youth
$20 per llama for the pack trial only
$15 per show llama entered in the Pack Trial
$20 per llama entered in the Pack Trial only.

Health Requirements

All llamas must show no signs of ill health. Out-of-state llamas are required to have a certificate of veterinary inspection (CVI) issued within 30 days of the show.

Youth and Performance Entries

The llama entry fee includes performance for one handler. Only llamas shown by youth may be taken through a second time by an "additional youth". He/she will be issued their own exhibitor number. Llamas entered in Youth may not be shown in Open. Youth members are permitted to show additional llamas in Open that were not shown in youth.

Showing from your trailer

You must provide your own panels, pop-ups, fans, generators, etc. Whatever you need to house your llamas safely and comfortably. You'll be parking on grass. Access to electricity is reserved for sponsoring farms only. If you do not have panels, contact us and we'll see what we can work out.

Camping

We encourage you to camp out! If staying in an RV it must be fully self contained. There is a bathroom with hot water in the barn (no showers).

Saturday Night Pot Luck

Join us in a pot luck dinner Saturday night. Please indicate on your entry form what you plan to bring.

T-shirts

The Base Camp logo on your choice unisex crew neck T-shirt, sweatshirts and/or hoodies can be ordered in adults sizes. If you need an XXL, please add $2 to your order. Youth T-shirts can be ordered in S, M or L.

Wash stall

The barn has a wash stall with a water heater. There is just one hose, but you are welcome to use the wash stall to bathe your llamas. Early arrival is recommended.

Dogs

Please leave your dogs at home. If you must bring them, they have to be contained/crated or on a leash at all times. Dogs will not be permitted in the show barn at all.

Lodging

Exhibitors are encouraged to camp out with us. However there are nearby options. This is UVA home football game weekend So, if you plan to stay in a hotel, make reservations early.

Full service KOA about 6 miles away.

Charlottesville is about 15 miles.

Nearest hotels include:

Holiday Inn at Monticello (Exit 120 - 5th Street) (434) 977-5100
